

The Half time show with nudity and self groping is sending such a terrible example to the young audience. The morals are steadily setting new lows. You wonder why there is so much violence in the bigger cities. Children who don't have parents setting moral guide lines learn too much too fast. You are the keepers for setting guide lines for our country. As you can see you are just like the parents that don't have restrictions and don't bother to enforce what guide lines exist. Just like the moral decay of big cities are getting worse so is the rest of the country. You should levy fines that no company will forget. It could help our national budget and our national morals.
